

EXHIBITOR OF THE DAY

The Valley Vet Exhibitor of the Day for Saturday, November 2, is Autumn Nelson of Columbus, Wisconsin. Nelson is competing at her first Color Breed Congress with her miniature ANOTHER LUCKY NIGHT, known as Lucky.

Nelson has been coming to the Pinto World Championship Show since 2017. In 2018, she won her first world championship in open obstacle driving and in youth obstacle driving.

“It’s been my favorite memory until this day,” Nelson said.

Time management is important to Nelson. She balances schoolwork with riding and showing. She attends Madison Area Technical College in Madison, Wisconsin, where she is pursuing a degree in marketing. She works with three minis and three large horses.

Nelson now is prepping for the amateur division. During her first year, she wants to learn how the division works. She then plans to compete in amateur events.

As for here at Congress, Nelson admits she was nervous about the showmanship class. And what did she find most exciting? Hands down, she enjoyed the obstacle class.

Congratulations to Autumn Nelson on a job well done. Each day at Color Breed Congress an exhibitor will be selected to be featured on the official PtHA website at www.pinto.org and Facebook page. Each winner receives a $100 Valley Vet gift card.
