

EXHIBITOR OF THE DAY

The Valley Vet Supply Exhibitor of the Day for Thursday, November 7, is Anne Jennings, of East Falmouth, Massachusetts.

Jennings is in Tulsa, Oklahoma, for her inaugural Color Breed Congress. Her horse show career began at a young age when she started showing in local open and 4-H horse shows. Eventually, she would become involved in eventing and dressage riding.

At Congress, Jennings is showing her 3-year-old halter horse whose registered name is DUI. It's the duo's first time to show in the class.

Jennings is consistently working toward her goals; owning a halter horse has been a top goal for years. "I love halter horses; it's been a dream of mine to have one," she said.

Horses also have been there during the tough times. "Horses saved my life like they have for many others," she said.

Back home, Jennings operates a farm animal rescue that includes horses, ponies, goats, ducks, geese and chickens. The rescue works with people who have addiction problems, are special needs or those who have "fallen through the cracks," she said.

"Horses have been so good for me so it feels good to give back to others," Jennings said. "You just never know who you're going to change."

Congratulations to Anne Jennings on a job well done. Each day at Color Breed Congress an exhibitor will be selected to be featured on the official PtHA website at www.pinto.org and Facebook page. Each winner receives a $100 Valley Vet gift card.
